House Approves
Huge Sum for Federal Roads

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The house today passed a federal highway aid bill calling for an outlay of $1,188,000,000 for roads in the two years beginning July 1, 1951.

It accepted a measure worked out by a senate-house conference committee after the two chambers passed varying bills. The senate has not yet acted on the compromise.

The measure does not put up any for the primary highway system, money but authorizes $450,000,000 $300,000,000 for the secondary highway system, $250,000,000 for the urban system and smaller amounts for roads and trails in parks and Indian reservations.

GOP Pounces
on MacArthur Incident

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—Republicans hoisted as a congressional campaign issue today what they called a presidential "gag" order against Gen. Douglas MacArthur's views on Formosa.

Accepting this as inevitable, Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, told reporters that while he thinks MacArthur is doing "a wonderful job" as the Pacific military commander it is my understanding that the President is the commander-in-chief and makes the policies.

While congressional reaction generally followed party lines, some Democrats backed MacArthur and at least one Republican supported Mr. Truman.

The President canceled a MacArthur message to a Chicago Veterans meeting — obviously because the general's views could be interpreted as calling for permanent island now in the hands of the Chinese Nationalists.

This went beyond the administration policy to neutralize the island from Communist attack during the Korean fighting and to leave its eventual disposition to international action, probably through the United Nations.

The MacArthur statement, which has been widely distributed in advance of its schedule and then canceled reading at Chicago

A Soldier Has to Find Some Way to Kill the Boredom
of War — A Comic Book Helps

By HAL BOYLE

Korea, (AP)—A soldier has to find some way to kill the boredom of battle.

One day I visited a forward command post in a gully near the Nakdong river. The position has been heavily shelled and mortared all day. One shell burst a half hour before had killed an officer and wounded his driver.

Those in the gully were hunched against its dikes for protection and their eyes held a tense expression. But one soldier across the way was leaning comfortably against the bank and frowning intently at a paper-bound book.

I started to walk across to him. A shell hit some hundred yards or so behind us just then. The gully seemed suddenly wider and barer than a six lane freeway.

"What are you reading?" I called.

The soldier, Cpl. Lloyd A. Hahn, of Baldwin Park, Calif., got up, brushed off a mote of dust and strolled unconcernedly over to where I crouched.

He held out a comic book called "The Batman." I asked him if it was very exciting.

"Just so-so," he said placidly, but it helps fill in the time. Then he strolled back to his post and the bank and read on in search of adventure.

There was a kind of symbolism in another book I saw on the desk of a major general the day one of his regiments had been roughly handled by the Reds.

It was "Tomorrow Will Be Better," by Betty Smith.

"I haven't had a chance to look into it yet — been too busy," said the general grimly. "But I sure like the title."

There are almost endless stories of narrow escapes during the see-saw battle for "Atrocious hill," north of Waegwan on the Nakdong river line. Some are almost un-

Contract for
New Telephone Building Let

Work on Hope's new telephone building to house the doming dial system will start as soon as possible in September, P. J. Poe, manager for the Southwestern Bell announced today. The contract was awarded yesterday to the C. and B. Construction Company of Hot Springs.

The one-story, red brick building will be located on a 100-foot-front lot just south of the Josephine Hospital and directly across South Main from the Baptist Church. Address of the new building will be 320 South Main.

Plans for the building was drawn up by the Architects, Erhart, Eichbaum and Rauch, call for a contemporary design, stone-trim, and steel joist roof construction. Fluorescent lighting and asphalt tile floors will be used throughout.

Fifteen feet of lawn will separate the building from the sidewalk. The building will have a 72 foot frontage and will extend back 81 feet.

The entrance, centered at the front of the building, will lead into a vestibule. Just to the right, in the northeast corner will be the telephone company's business office.

Dial switching equipment will occupy a greater part of the rear floor space and will be generally on the north side. The switchboard for handling dial assistance calls and long distance calls will be in a room in the west rear area. An operator's rest room and locker room will be situated in the southwest corner of the structure.

A boiler room and emergency engine room will be located to the rear of the building. Purpose of the emergency diesel engine will be to assure uninterrupted telephone service at times when the commercial electric power supply may be temporarily interrupted.

All telephone wires will enter the building by underground cables leading into a cable vault. Immediately north of the new building a concrete drive will lead to a parking area for company vehicles at the rear of the lot.

The plumbing and heating subcontract was given to the Shiver Plumbing and Heating Company of Hope, electrical work will be handled by the Fagan Electrical Company of Little Rock.

U. S. Awaits
Reaction to Squabble

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—Administration officials anxiously awaited reaction from abroad today to the open conflict on Formosa between President Truman and General Douglas MacArthur.

They feared possible loss of confidence in the sincerity of American support of the United Nations, and even more so among the peoples of Asia where Communist propaganda is expected to exploit the incident to the full.

There also was the question which only foreign reaction can answer, whether MacArthur's value as the No. 1 American figure and military leader in the Far East may be impaired.

In Asia, "race" ranks high in the motivations and reactions of the people. Would the Japanese, the South Koreans and the unfriendly Communists of Asia interpret the incident to mean that MacArthur had been reprimanded by his superior. If so, it might endanger the vast prestige that he built up around the general. He might "lose face."

The apprehension over loss of confidence by Asian people in American motives prompted Mr. Truman's restatement of official policy in his letter to Ambassador Warren R. Austin at United Nations headquarters. The White House made it public yesterday in announcing that the President personally directed MacArthur to withdraw a statement that "war is inevitable" unless Formosa is kept out of unfriendly hands.

By contrast, Mr. Truman said again that the U. S. "has no designs on Formosa" and the question of its ultimate political control is a matter for a future international settlement.

The White House said Mr. Truman considered this closed the incident. It was evident, however, that repercussions would be heard at least through the domestic political campaign. Republican critics already had charged the administration with "gagging" the far eastern and U. N. commander.

The latest dispute revolved around MacArthur's bringing back into the open the sharp differences among some high diplomatic and military officials over the course this country has pursued in Asia. What state department official objected to was not so much MacArthur's argument for a firm policy as the manner in which he restated his argument. Their criticism was that he spoke out of turn at a critical time.

Other American prisoners on Atrocious hill weren't so lucky. Between 40 and 50 were shot to death by the retreating Reds.

Troops at the frontline have to strip down to the barest essentials gear. Only the things that help a man stay alive and fight can be carried into the assembly lines of the industry of death.

But a soldier in one outfit who is an ardent golfer insisted on taking a golf club to battle. Most days he manages to get in about an hour of practice drives.

Whenever he comes to a cucumber patch he puts down his pack and monochantly tees off — using the cucumbers as golf balls. There is no need to try "fore" as the course is quite uncrowded.

Experts to Discuss Situation

London, Aug. 29 (AP)—Curtain-raiser talks prior to the coming big three foreign ministers' conference will begin in the United States in the next few days.

Diplomatic officials today reported that two subjects certain to figure high on the agenda of the American, British, and French ministers will be:

1. West Germany's role in the defense plans of the 12 Atlantic pact partners.

2. The future status of Formosa.

The diplomatic chiefs are to meet in New York Sept. 12. In preparation for this, their expert assistants will get together either in New York or Washington within the next few days.

Ambassador Lewis Douglas is flying to Washington Wednesday to attend these talks.

An official statement issued by the United States embassy here said today that Douglas has been called back "on official matters," and the ambassador, Mrs. Douglas, and their socially popular daughter, Sharmen, will be absent from London for about three weeks.

Douglas has been the American representative on a three-nation group looking into West Germany's political and economic future. The entire German question is expected to have an important place in the big three talks.

Ex-Convict
Was Arrested in Prescott

Vandalia, Ill., Aug. 29 (AP)—An ex-convict who boasted he owed society 245 years for his crimes drew the maximum punishment yesterday for his attack on a truck driver who was shot in the back, tied to a tree, beaten, and left for dead.

Claude Tillman, 48, of Tulsa, Okla., was sentenced to life imprisonment for armed robbery and grand larceny, 20 years for the theft of a truck, and 14 years for assault with intent to kill.

The former convict pleaded guilty to these charges before Circuit Judge F. R. Dove, but grew indignant when asked by the court if he also would plead guilty to stealing $70 from his civilt after the attack.

"Right is right and wrong is no sir," Tillman exclaimed. "Right is right and wrong is wrong, and I'm not pleading guilty to something I didn't do."

The truck driver who was left for dead in the attack near Vandalia last June is Carl Pusinger, 38, of Kansas City. He recovered. Pusinger had befriended the hitchhiking Tillman with a ride.

Before sentence was passed, Tillman said "it doesn't make any difference what I draw because I have 245 years ahead of me already." He said he was wanted in Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and Florida.

Tillman, alias Leroy Rambo and Joe Nash, was arrested in Arkansas and waived extradition to Illinois when informed the crime for which he was wanted here did not carry the death penalty.

Ruin Red China
for Quick Push to Pusan

Tokyo, Wednesday, Aug. 23 (AP)—Allied troops beat back Red attacks in two wild battles at opposite ends of the curving Korean warfront Tuesday.

That apparently ended Communist chances of a quick run on Pusan, the Red's main goal.

But the North Korean building up at the center of the line for a major stab at the Nations forces.

The bloodiest battle was held hill at the southern end of the line. There American troops and South Korean forces charged in hand-to-hand combat. One American machine gun was wiped out by Red barrage.

At the other end of the front a Red force whipped back Allied troops and cut a road miles southwest of Pusan at the east coast anchor.

The Pusan sector still was controlled by United Nations troops. The attacking 20,000 Red troops were pushed back around recaptured Kijang, nine miles northwest of Pusan.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in an early morning warning said South Korean forces were up to 2,000 yards over the line in the Kijang area. Enemy resistance was described as light at this point, but farther north progress was slow against "constant enemy resistance."

A battalion of Reds — 800 more strong — attacked a South Korean force 5 miles northwest of Pusan in Uihong area.

While these developments place the first Communist attack in the Pusan area, the South Korean force of 1,500 is in the south.

Near the center of the front other 20,000-man Red force attacked South Korean infantry 18 miles north of Taegu, the hub.

Taegu and Pusan, principal U. N. seaports at the southern tip of the Korean peninsula, the main North Korean objective in the south.

An official spokesman said of seizing Pusan in a quick run. Communists had lost all chance of seizing Pusan in a quick run.

American troops are now in the main area of battle around Pusan. But they had not gone into the battle. U. S. artillery in the airfield six miles southwest of Pusan and a reported 10,000 men pressed South Korean troops.

The Pusan sector battle is developing into a see-saw. While one force of Reds was pushing southward another was being back by the South Korean division. It moved north more a mile and retook Kijang.

Kijang itself is not important in the complex of roads. Roads lead west to Taegu, which is much of its supplies through hang port.

U. S. 8th army commander said the Reds controlled the area around Kijang and had blocked a highway southwest of Pusan.

A spokesman for General MacArthur warned that the situation area still offers the chance of a major breach in the front lines wall, which 40,000 U. S. Reds have been probing for spot for days.

The Reds kept pressure on adjacent sectors west of the coast.

The 8th army commander reported an attack on the South Korean sixth division by units of 600 Reds.

Nearby the South Korean division attacked to straighten lines after some earlier losses.

troops stepped ashore in Korea to day, adding their guns to the mounting United Nations strength opposing fighting Red hordes hammering at the 120-mile long battlefront.

In most sectors Allied troops held firm in the face of a growing drive by 40,000 North Korean Communists. But there was danger of a Red breakthrough at the East coast anchor of the warfront.

Heaviest Red pressure was on the central and eastern sectors.

South Koreans regained ground around Kigye, nine miles northwest of the eastern line sea anchor and held firm at the port of Pohang on the Sea of Japan east coast.

North of Taegu, hub city of the central front, the Reds shoved them back four miles, rolling within 1 mile of Taegu.

Frontline dispatches said Allied troops had recaptured Kigye, nine miles northwest of the east coast port of Pohang. General MacArthur's headquarters said this could not be confirmed. However, a spokesman said Allied troops were west and east of Kigye and advancing.

American troops plunged into the battlezone on the east coast.

While the situation appeared improved, the MacArthur spokesman warned of the dangers of a breakthrough still existing in the east.

Far to the south the wall of bag pipes sounded as 1,500 British infantrymen went ashore from the carrier Uniform and the cruiser Ceylon from Hong Kong.

They were the first of a large group of ground forces officially promised by other members of the United Nations. They disembarked in jungle greens, with part of their own battle equipment and, as a Scottish officer said "ready to go."

The British force was composed of units of the famed Argyll and Sutherland and Middlesex regiments. They came especially trained for the type of war raging in Korea — mountain fighting.

They arrived at a moment when the United Nations line — held until now by United States and South Korean infantrymen — was under heavy pressure on its northeast wing. And a giant Communist offensive, plainly was building for another and possibly the greatest effort to smash through the whole position.

What effect the incident will have on (a) this country's prestige abroad and (b) MacArthur's future remained to be seen.

So far as MacArthur is concerned, the White House said yesterday, soon became public.

In it, the general said that war is inevitable if Formosa falls into unfriendly hands.

It was obvious that the White House viewed the incident with considerable concern. Newsmen there were briefed for nearly an hour on the sequence of events and on U. S. policy toward Formosa.

A top White House official who asked that he not be named said the affair would at least prevent any recurrence of such public airings of divergent views.

Claude Tillman, sentenced to life plus 34 years imprisonment in Vandalia, Ill., yesterday, was arrested in Prescott, Ark., last June 11.

The one-eyed fugitive from a sentence of more than 200 years in Florida prison, who told police he specialized in robbing truck drivers, was picked up by State Trooper Guy Downing, after he had abducted a Texas trucker.

Earlier, Tillman, alias Leroy Rambo, told state police Lt. H. R. Peterson that he abducted a motorist near Morrilton, Ark., and a truck driver in northeast Arkansas.

After the attack on the driver near Vandalia, Lt. Peterson expressed the opinion that it was done by the man responsible for the Arkansas abductions, and

Mr. Truman considers the matter closed. MacArthur remained silent.

Paralleling the reaction in Washington, newspapers across the nation differed sharply. Some criticized the President for what they called a gag on the general. Others said MacArthur had interfered with foreign policy.

The text of the general's statement was widely printed, although some newspapers omitted its contents entirely.

What was certain was that the whole incident would be threshed over at length in the coming political campaign this fall.

Representative Morrison said the Baton Rouge plan involves dredging a channel that will allow barge tows to reassemble their tow in a river harbor sheltered from string currents.

The project eyed by association members were aims at utilizing President's island as a site for industrial plants, closing off a "chute" of the Mississippi river to provide an ideal harbor to serve the plants. The island lies in the Mississippi, just below the Memphis waterfront.

Russia Said Sending Out Sub Officers

London, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Daily Herald in a story from Stockholm today said Russian submarine officers are sailing secretly in Soviet merchant ships to all parts of the world.

"They are under orders to achieve pin point navigational skill and learn snapshot recognition of foreign vessels in the shortest possible time," the dispatch said.

A. J. McWhinnie, the Herald's Stockholm correspondent, said his facts were pieced together from three authentic sources of information. He did not disclose these sources.

While pre-fabricated parts of submarines are still being carried by rail and canal to widely scattered bases, the account continued, "actual assembly of the pre-fabricated hulls and machinery has been slowed down for the training, sea time and skill of the crews to catch up."

"My information is that the total of Russian submarines has reached 380, and the prefabrication plant could produce 45 to 60 new boats each month if the trained crews were available."

The dispatch said that 120 of the 380 are obsolete and that half of the remainder were built for purely defensive operation around the Russian coastline.

"So Russia's longrange operational underwater strength at this moment is 130 submarines," the dispatch said. "Fifty of these are believed to be in the Baltic and 80 in the Pacific."

The dispatch did not locate the other 20.

Broker Charters Airliner for Trip to N. Y.

Indianapolis, Aug. 29 — (AP) — A 40-passenger Convair airliner was chartered by a New York stock broker last night to take himself and his wife, a model, to a fashion show at Lake Placid, N. Y. today.

The plane carried a pilot, copilot, and stewardess in addition to the New York couple and their French poodle. It returned to West Cook airport 15 minutes after the takeoff to pick up a cosmetic bag the wife had left behind. Then it took off again for Lake Placid.

Airport attendants estimated the cost of the charter at $1,800. The broker told them not to release his name.

that he be back in Arkansas. Nine days later Tillman was picked up near Newport, Ark., by a Texan, who was robbed and left tied to a tree near Gurdon. He managed to free himself and notify police, a short time later, Tillman was arrested in his truck in Prescott by Trooper Downing.

CHOW HOUND OR GENTLEMAN? — A Cleveland, O., court must determine if Laddie, a 35-pound dog of uncertain ancestry, owned by Bernard O'Sickey, is a well-behaved mongrel or if he wreaked havoc in the garden of O'Sickey's neighbor. The neighbor, Mrs. Anna Stoffa, is suing for $2,000, charging that Laddie "uprooted, chewed and tossed tomatoes, beets, cabbages, lettuce, celery and parsley planted by her," and "rolled over and over" in her flower bed. His owner said Laddie—seen above with a neighbor's dog—was "the gentlest dog we ever owned."

Lewis Defiant to Anti-Strike Pledge

Washington, Aug. 29 — (AP) — John L. Lewis advised AFL President William Green today that his coal miners won't be found by any AFL-inspired no-strike pledge.

The government has not asked labor groups to forego strikes during the Korean fighting and defense-building period ahead, but Green and some top CIO officers have indicated that such a pledge would be given if it was asked.

The United Mine Workers made points a sarcastically worded memorandum from Lewis to Green.

Lewis said the newspapers reported Green "as plodding about the country seeking someone to whom you can give a 'no strike pledge.'"

Lewis commented: "Restrict your pledges to your own outfit. We do our own no striking."

He also told Green: "I am sure that you will pardon me when I suggest that the mine workers are not yet ready for you to sell them down the river."

The mine workers are now an independent union, but at various times in the past have been affiliated with the CIO and the AFL.

Lewis pulled them out of the AFL in December, 1947.

Money Bill Is Ready for Mr. Truman

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP) — A $554,600,425 money bill to run the government this year was ready today for transmission to President Truman, who objects to its provision for a loan to Spain.

Despite the President's pen opposition to the $62,500,000 loan to Franco's government, congressional leaders don't look for a veto since the bill finances almost all operations of the government for the year which started July 1.

Instead, some high congressional sources speculated, the President may ignore the congressional directive and tie up the money, supposed to be turned over to Spain. The Spanish loan is part of the bill's foreign aid allotment totaling $4,387,373,729.

Finishing touches were put on the bill late yesterday by the Senate and the House. Both approved it by voice vote. It had been before Congress since April.

The Senate appropriations committee, meanwhile tackled another big appropriation bill, providing $16,771,000,000 more, most of it for military equipment and foreign arms aid. The House passed this bill last Saturday; the Senate is expected to do so later in the week.

Most of the money in the bill still pending in the Senate is earmarked for defense purposes. And the general appropriations measure also provides $13,294,299,443 in cash and $1,385,785,000 in contract authority for the defense department.

Congressional military experts have disclosed that still a third defense money bill, expected to total about $10,000,000,000 is being prepared by the administration.

The President yesterday asked Congress for an additional $28,500,000 to step up power production in the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Ex-Red May Furnish the Missing Links

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP)—Lee Pressman, admitting he once belonged to a Communist group, faced new questioning today from congressional Red probes hoping to find "missing links" in the Hiss-Chambers case. The one-time general counsel to the CIO and top lawyer for a number of New Deal agencies was

U. S. to Try to Halt Goods to Russia

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP)—The United States has decided to try to tighten up the system of trade controls by which strategic materials are supposed to be kept from Russia.

State and commerce department officials concede in talks with newsmen that important war potential goods have been leaking out to the Communist countries through loopholes. But closing those loopholes involves a difficult problem of cooperating by other governments since most of them are in Western Europe.

Some American experts on economic policy say that what the United States is faced with here is economic warfare with the Communist countries. Others contend the question is simpler, being concerned solely with preventing the Russians from getting American or Western European goods which would aid them in a military sense.

The whole matter was reviewed by the President's top policy making agency, the national security council, last Thursday. Reliable sources who cannot be named say the government then decided that steps must be taken to prevent the loss of important materials now going through to the Soviets.

The first important move along this line is expected to be taken by Secretary of State Acheson when he meets with British foreign Minister Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman in New York Sept. 12.

Recently word got out here that a shipment of about 5 tons of the steel hardening metal molybdenum, exported from the United States to Britain was then transhipped to the Soviet Union. Learning of this the commerce department cancelled the license which would have permitted shipment of a large additional quantity.

On another phase of the same problem, former Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared in a political speech in Britain Saturday that a British factory was turning out tools suitable for the repair of tanks for the Russians.

Lovers May Revive Civil War in Crete

Athens, Aug. 28 (AP)—Premier Sophocles Venizelos personally intervened today to try to restore calm on the stormy islands of Crete, where civil war threatens over the abduction of a 19-year old beauty by her lover.

Venizelos suspended parts of the constitution covering personal liberties and assembly to prevent "infraction of public order." The young couple remained hidden in a cave, while on ancient Mount Ida, defying warnings that they might revive the bloody feud that has split their families for years.

She is Stassoula, a 19-year old daughter of a liberal member of Greece's parliament, George brother of Manuel Kephalyonnis, populist member of parliament.

The two have been secretly in love for some time, but because of political split between their two families, no one has tried to arrange a marriage.

Last Tuesday, Constantine decided to act on his own. With five armed comrades, he stopped Stassoula, her sister and brother-in-law as they emerged from the movies in Heraklion's main square. While the co-defendants held the sister and her husband, Constantine and the willing Stassoula escaped in an automobile.

Constantine's brother, Manuel, and representatives of Stassoula's family have contacted the couple hiding out in caves on lofty Mount Ida, legendary birthplace of the god Zeus.

Manuel warned Stassoula: "My girl, you have lighted a fire called for a repeat appearance before the house committee of un-American activities."

Rep. Nixon (R-Calif.), a committee member, told reporter he would recommend a closed door session with Pressman, with a public hearing possible later on.

Pressman declined to tell the committee in 1948 if he had ever been a Communist. Just recently he quit the American Labor party and Nixon suggesting Pressman was ready to talk, asked his recall.

On the eve of his new appearance, Pressman issued a statement saying he was a member of "a Communist group" for about a year in 1934-35 during his government service. His statement last night did not say whether he had been a card-carrying Communist.

VIII
ROGER BLESSED snatched one of the blankets. Miss Myers Sharpe had been airing and pulling down her clothes line as he ran, he made a snatching tackle. In an instant he had snatched Greta in the folds of the lines and pushed Jimmy Joe Farrie off to one side in the grass.

Jimmy Joe must have thought Roger had attacked him, because he bounced right back hammering on Roger with his fists and yelling "Get that dog outa that blanket! Don't kill her like you did my Spunky!"

Jimmy Joe was kicking too. About that time I panted up to the scene and peered Roger and the youngster apart.

Greta had grown quiet by the time Tom Carson's sister drove up, bringing Tom to take Greta's body home. Tom's face was beautiful to see when we brought him a quiet, and very sick, but definitely alive dog instead of the stiffened body he'd expected. Roger helped me put Greta on the floor in the back of the car.

As he straightened up, Roger spoke hesitantly to Tom. "I wish you could believe, Tom, that I had nothing to do with Greta's poisoning."

Tom poked a hand in Roger's direction. "I do believe it, Roger. I didn't really think even at first that you could have poisoned Greta. But it's a human habit to lash out in any direction when we're hurt. So please forget that."

When their hands met and Roger stood there with his shoulders back and the first grin I'd seen on his face since I came home, I said aloud what I'd been thinking: "Catching Greta when she was in such a tizzy took plenty of nerve, Roger."

"I was thinking about Jimmy Joe," Roger said. "Even if he does have me typed for the villain, I'm not one! And Greta wasn't really dangerous; she was only sick."

Malik Calls for Discussion of Formosa

Lake Success, Aug. 29 (AP)—Russia opens a new propaganda campaign before the security council today, charging American aggression against Communist China in Formosa.

Russian Delegate Jakob A. Malik, council president until the end of the month, notified other delegates he would fight to put such charges on the agenda for today's council meeting. Even if he loses his fight, he still has the chance to make another long speech attacking the U. S.

The U. S. already has said that Communist China's charges last week of U. S. aggression in Formosa are "ridiculous falsehoods" and that the Americans are ready for an on-the-spot inquiry immediately. But while welcoming the inquiry on Formosa, the U. S. still maintains that the council first must take up her own charges of Communist aggression in Korea.

On the Soviet side Malik, since taking the council presidency at the beginning of August, has opposed the U. S. resolution to localize the Korean war and simultaneously has charged the U. S. with aggression in Korea.

Although the U. S. was not expected to oppose Malik's attempt to bring Formosa into his propaganda blasts, other council members were reported ready to comply with this on the order of business. They insist on clearing up the Korean question which Malik was blocked.

Ten Million Join SS Benefit Roll

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP)—President Truman today signed a bill bringing 10,000,000 additional persons under an age insurance, calling it "an outstanding achievement."

In a statement the President declared: "Expanded coverage and increased benefits in old age insurance should now be matched by steps to strengthen our unemployment insurance system."

"At the same time, we urgently need a system of insurance against which will burn our houses for 100 years. All of us will be exterminated. Your father has sent me to catch you dead or alive. It is your duty to abide by your father's wishes."

"You may go if you wish," Constantine said to Stassoula. She paused a moment. Then said firmly: "No, I'll stay here. I'll bear the responsibility. Please tell my father to give me his blessing."

When Manuel pleaded with his brother to send the girl back, Constantine retorted: "You should know the girl will stay with me. We'll kill ourselves if necessary."

Both families are powerful and can command hundreds of supporters. Cretans say there is sure to be bloodshed unless some miraculous reconciliation is effected. The Romeo and Juliet romance has crowded news of the Korean war off the front pages of Greek newspapers.

somebody besides a dog getting poisoned next! I hit the stairs like a sixth grade class coming out of school at 3 o'clock. And the second jump I made, broke the chair. The lace I'd patched together when I got up late, I felt my Oxford turn, tried frantically to recover my balance, tripped on the trailing lace. My foot tore out of the shoe and pitched me crashing down the stairs.

NEXT thing I was staring hard at a calendar on a bare white wall. The silly thing kept insisting that it was the 15th of the month when I knew it was only the 10th and time to send out the bills. The calendar was two days fast.

"Should keep them wound better. Makes it very confusing," I muttered shaking my head. The shake set up my head pain, fully buzzing like a swarm of bees. Raising a hand to keep it from flying to pieces, I found that I was swathed above the ears in a kind of soft, cottony dome. Ah, I thought, a bee hive, that's where the bees come from.

"Now, now! Mustn't fuss with our bandages the first minute we get our beautiful brown eyes open."

The voice and the noises merged into a starchy nurse. It was Sally. She strong-armed me flat on my back again. "Now, you feel Doc?" she asked me solicitously.

I started to shake my head but thought better of it. The less that humming bee hive was disturbed the better. "How should I feel?" I asked her. "What am I doing here? I don't even know if I've had typhoid or twins."

"Funny man," Sally batted her blue eyes at me and then left me a moment to open a blind on the window. "You tumbled down the stairs at your rooming house, Doc. It's a miracle that you didn't break your poor, sweet neck. The X-rays didn't show a fracture though. Only a concussion."

"You sound as if you were disappointed in me," I said. "You usually do things thoroughly," Sally replied. "But I guess I'll forgive you for only halfway killing yourself this time." (To Be Continued)

DOROTHY DIX Restless Wife

Dear Miss Dix: I am 24 and have been married almost a year. Before I was married I did stenographic work and liked it very much. I have a fine husband whom I love and who is good to me.

I have a nice home, but at times I get very restless. I feel pinned down and that there is not enough excitement in keeping house or cooking to keep me interested. Since I have been married I have taken several temporary positions and as soon as I did I lost the depressed and restless feeling, but when I did, I couldn't keep up my housework and we had to eat out.

My husband thinks it makes a happier marriage if the wife stays at home. Perhaps it does, but I don't know anything about cooking or domestic work and pine for my old job. What can I do?

PUZZLED

Answer: Have a baby. Nature supplies the remedy for idle women. When you have a youngster to love and pet, feed, bathe and dress, and who will keep you on the jump every minute of the day and half the night, you will not complain that time hangs heavy on your hands, or that you are bored because you have nothing exciting and interesting to do.

Housework can be Profession
In your particular case, and while you are waiting for the baby to solve your problem for you, I urge you to try to regard housemaking as a profession and not as a chore. It is because most women only put their backs and not their brains nor their hearts into housework that they find it drudgery. They never learn how to cook so they never find out that it takes skill and artistry and poetry.

And imagination to make a dish that delights the palate and the eye and the stomach. They never learn how to buy so as to get the most out of a dollar, or to run a house on a budget, so they never

"I shall continue to urge action on this unfinished business and I know that the committee of congress are now preparing to give these matters serious consideration."

Mr. Truman attacked as "very unfortunate" the so-called "Knowledge amendment" sponsored by Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) which the senate added as a rider. He expressed hope congress will reconsider this ill-advised provision.

This is a provision which administration spokesmen content would restrict the authority of Secretary of Labor Tobin to withhold unemployment compensation funds from states failing to meet federal standards.

The new law also more than doubles payroll taxes over the next 20 years, to help pay for the larger benefits. The payroll taxes will increase from $2,500,000,000 this year to about $7,800,000,000 in 1970.

State Revenue Department Lay Off Men

Little Rock, Aug. 28 (AP)—Twenty-three employees of the Arkansas revenue department will be laid off Sept. 1.

The order for the reduction in employees came from Revenue Commissioner Dean R. Morley. He said it was in line with Governor McMath's request for economy in state government.

Morley said his department would save at least $40,000 a year in salaries. Names of the employees who will be released were not revealed.

Truman Talk to the Nation

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP)—President Truman was reported today to be preparing a talk to the nation—possibly late this week—in which he will outline what belt-tightening may be necessary because of the war in Korea.

High White House sources who could not be named told a reporter that considerable work has already been done on the draft of such a talk. It would be Mr. Truman's first report to the nation since his July 19 radio address spelling out a partial mobilization program to deal with the Korean fighting.

These officials said no definite time had been set. One reason was reported to be that congress has not yet acted upon the President's request for legislation which would enable him to impose limited controls on the domestic economy.

A senate house committee today buckled down to the task of compromising a dispute over how much lee way to give the President over wage and price controls.

Congress agreed in advance to keep at the job until midnight if necessary in an effort to break a deadlock and speed anti-inflation legislation to the White House.

Senator Maybank (D-SC), chairman of the senate banking committee who heads the senate conferees, was ready with a compromise he hoped would prove acceptable. It would require senate and house approval.

Senator Ives (R-NY) whose appointment to the conference committee yesterday puts him in a key spot, also told reporters he may offer a plan to resolve the dispute.

Ives said he hoped "a reasonable, workable compromise," better than the provisions in either of the separate home-front mobilization bills pass by the senate or the house, would be forthcoming.

The crux of the matter is this: In giving the President standby power to impose price and wage controls, should congress let him put them into effect bit by bit or require him to slap them on virtually everything if he makes any use of his authority.

The house bill would permit Mr.

CIO Voted to Out Bridge

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP)—CIO executive board today voted to oust Harry W. Ladd, president of the CIO, from the CIO following the Communist line.

The dissenting vote was by J. W. Robertson, president of the Bridge, Union, and Shipyard Workers, headed by Joseph P. Kamp, which had merged two ago with the Bridge Workers. A three-man committee, headed by Ladd, had reported past several years and that he had adhered to Communist policies at the CIO programs. The committee commending ouster, but a dissenting board that the CIO had been "highly successful in controlling the I.W.O."

The convention last year authorized the removal of all the unions found to be following Communist policy.

Included in the ouster of 100 longshoremen was that of the Fishermen and Workers, headed by Joseph P. Kamp, which had merged two ago with the Bridge Workers. A three-man committee, headed by Ladd, had reported past several years and that he had adhered to Communist policies at the CIO programs. Truman to apply wage controls on a selective basis. But the senate passed an amendment of Senate Bill (Ohio) that would require President to invoke price and wage controls on nearly everything if he all and to clamp controls at the same time.

SS Survivors Insurance

By SAM DAWSON

Hot Springs, Aug. 29 — (AP) — The survivors insurance program, which covers the families of men who work long enough to be covered by the law can be a pension when he dies or, if he dies, for his survivors. Such a man is fully insured.

Example: A man now only 35 years old, who has worked in a covered job since 1935, is fully insured and entitled to a pension of $40 a month or benefits for his family if he dies.

Example: A man who has worked in a covered job long enough, in case they get covered by the law, but not long enough to be entitled to a pension. They're "partially" insured.

Example: Any one who has worked in a covered job, roughly 10 years out of the three preceding his death is covered.

The program got under way in 1935. At that time only about 55,000 jobs have been covered by law. But 80,000,000 Americans have worked in these jobs at one time or another.

That number about 40,000,000 are fully insured and another 40,000,000 are currently insured. About 34,500,000 haven't worked long enough in covered jobs to be entitled to any benefits.

Now Congress has brought protection of the program to 10,000,000 people whose jobs have not been covered before. They get in until Jan. 1, 1951, so they pay no social security tax.

There are the groups to whom the program has been opened: but not all of the self-employed; regularly employed workers; domestic workers, such as house maids; some salesmen; federal civilian employees not covered by a pension system; American firms' workers employed abroad; workers in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands; some employees of state or locally owned transit systems; employees of nonprofit (such as religious, charitable, educational) organizations; and employees of state and local governments not now covered by a pension.

It is compulsory for all except two groups to get in. In individual non-profit organizations and the employees will decide whether to get in, and state and local governments will decide whether to let their employees get in, or not covered by a pension system, get into the social security program.

This story will explain the program of the self-employed. Later other groups will be dealt with in detail.

The self-employed — This means — generally — any self-employed person who has a net income of $400 a year or more. Anyone with less than a net of $400 a year is still excluded.

There are some self-employed who are excluded even by the new law from any part in the program.

You're still excluded if you're self-employed farmer or farm worker; doctor; lawyer; dentist; optometrist; osteopath; veterinarian; chiropractor; Christian Science practitioner; professional engineer; naturopath (a kind of "holistic" doctor); architect; full-time practicing public accountant; or a funeral director.

There's no doubt about anyone in that group. He's out. But there are some self-employed who may wonder whether they're in or out. The lines are not always precisely clear. If you are self-employed and have doubts, check with your nearest social security office.

A self-employed person has a duty of time to make such a check because — while his coverage under the program starts Jan. 1, 1951 — he doesn't have to pay social security tax until 1952. How will he pay it? He pays it at the same time when, in 1952, he is making his regular income tax return on his 1951 income. There'll be a place at the bottom of the 1952 income tax form for the self-employed to note and pay his social security tax.

This arrangement for the self-employed, of course, is different from that covering all other groups. All others are employees. Their employers have to turn in their taxes during the year in which they're insured or covered.

This will give an example of why the lines may not always be clear about self-employment for, remember, only a self-employed person with a net income of $400 has to pay a social security tax.

A man who has a business of his own but, say, rents out his house cannot include that rent in figuring his net income.

But a man who makes a living as a real estate agent or a man who runs a rooming house — will include rents as net income.

Suppose a man runs a candy store by himself. Is he self-employed? Yes. Suppose there's 40 or 50 or any number of people working for him. Is he self-employed?

Yes, if his business is not incorporated. If it was incorporated, it's already under the program. Why? Because under the old and new law, officers of a corporation are considered employees in a business, not self-employed.

That's why presidents of some of the biggest corporations, making

Betrayed by McMath Yells MacKrell

Little Rock, Aug. 28 — (AP) — James (Uncle Mac) MacKrell claims that a "double-cross" by Governor McMath led to the closing of a children's home he has operated since 1945. But the governor says it isn't so.

Closing of Arkansas academy, located at nearby Mavalvale, because of financial difficulties was announced Saturday.

Sunday, MacKrell issued a statement alleging:

1. McMath and some of his associates promised MacKrell that if he would run for lieutenant governor this year and say he was not opposed to a second term for McMath, they would pay his campaign expenses;

2. Truman Baker, whom he identified as an associate of McMath gave him money every Monday in the campaign preceding this summer's Democratic primaries;

3. After the election in which McMath was renominated but MacKrell was defeated, McMath asked MacKrell what he would do for him and MacKrell said he wanted a good board for the children's home; MacKrell suggested that Mrs. Henry Bethel, state welfare commissioner, and Tom Downey, who was nominated for Pulaski prosecutor in the first Democratic primary, be named to the board;

4. Later, Mrs. Bethel told MacKrell that McMath had ordered the children's home closed and the children there placed in the care of the welfare department.

"Over 75,000 persons have $1 or more interest in the home," MacKrell said, "and I'm sure it will make them so mad that he (McMath) will never undo what he had done in closing the home. I am going to write the full explanation how he double-crossed me and mail it to these people."

MacKrell, an unsuccessful opponent to McMath for the 1938 gubernatorial nomination, has financed the home through contributions solicited by radio programs and personal appearances. He said yesterday he was "completely out of a job and broke."

McMath countered by saying, "The only truth" in MacKrell's statement is that he came to me and talked about the school and asked if the state would take it over."

The governor said he explained that would require an act of the legislature.

McMath added that an investigation showed "living conditions were bad" at the home and that "the children were just about destitute."

The state sent some food to the home until arrangements could be made to return the children to relatives or place them in temporary foster homes," the governor said.

Thirty-three children, ranging in age from three to 17 years, resided at the home.

Walter Hagen won five Professional Golfer's Association championships during his career, four in a row.

Against More Tax on Corporations

Washington, Aug. 28 — (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois said on leaving the White House today that President Truman does not want an excess profits tax on corporations "at this time."

Lucas told reporters: "This does not mean that the President is not, very, very, strongly for this tax to take the profits out of war. But he wants action later after a thorough study."

Lucas said the President does not believe the excess profits amendment offered by Senators O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) and Connally (D-Tex) "can be administered and he doesn't want to go into it until we know all the answers."

It is the President's position, Lucas said, to keep the present tax bill "as simple as possible" so that it can be hurried through Congress.

At the same time an administration source said a nose count of senators on the issue showed the vote — expected within a few days — would "be very close." He asked not to be named.

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the senate's tax-writing finance committee repeated his warning that hasty action on an excess profits tax "may result in no tax bill."

George has been leading the battle against tacking the tax onto the tax boosting bill asked by the President to help meet expanding national defense costs. It would raise an estimated $4,508,000,000, primarily by boosting levies on individual and corporation incomes.

Senators O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) and Connally (D-Tex) are spearheading the drive to attach to the bill the excess profits tax—similar to one used in World War II.

O'Mahoney claims enough senate support to upset the majority of the finance committee and attach it to the bill now under debate.

George, in an interview, is the O'Mahoney-Connally proposal as now drafted would not require the country's biggest corporations — like General Motors and United States Steel — "to pay a dime of excess profits taxes."

George said a number of industries important in the expanding defense effort would be hard hit by the proposal. He named air-

Value of the U. S. Dollar Going Down

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Aug. 28 — (AP) — The value of your dollar is going down again. Some think a floor will soon be put under it by increased production of the foods and goods you want to buy. Others think inflation is going to get much worse before it gets better.

The drop in the value of the dollar is just another way of saying that the cost of living has jumped sharply since the outbreak of the Korean war, starting its tenth week today.

Most observers see no way for prices in general to go for the rest of this year but up. However a few government officials think the big jump has already taken place, and that while some things, like rent and house furnishings, may continue to climb, others, particularly meat, are due to drop.

Scare buying has played the craft manufacturers, ship builders, textiles and utilities.

villian's role so far. The greatest damage wasn't done by the hoarders who flocked to retail stores, but by the merchants, wholesalers and manufacturers who flooded the primary sources of commodities with anticipatory orders.

These multiple orders in excess of actual needs brought about the shortages that caused the gray markets and the price hikes. The effects of these increases in the costs of raw materials are still working their way along the pipelines of distribution toward your retail stores.

The bureau of labor statistics finds the cost of living went up three per cent between April and July 15. But BLS Commissioner Ewan Clagu says living costs "pretty definitely are leveling off."

However, here are some of the finished products on which price hikes have been announced (not by all producers nor in all cities) during August. Each adds a little to the cost of living since the period covered by the BLS report.
